

Workshop: Understanding Fuel and Transport Poverty and Associated Challenges for a Scottish Just Transition

What is it?

As part of a research collaboration between the University of Dundee and the University of Strathclyde, we are developing a workshop with community members to understand the links and joint challenges of fuel and transport poverty in Scotland, and to help enable a just transition to low carbon heat and mobility.

Our findings will allow solutions to be tailored according to community needs, taking into account the most appropriate technology, economic, social and community based solutions with the highest probability of success in tackling these challenges.

Note that all information collected from the workshop will be anonymised and we will not share any identifiable information outside the research project team.

Where will it take place?

The workshop will last two hours and will take place on the Friday 3rd February 2023.

To enable more people to join us, we will run two separate sessions on the day: 1 to 3pm and 4 to 6pm. At The Circle, 69-71 Aberdalgie Road, Easterhouse, Glasgow, G34 9HJ.

Coffee, tea and other refreshments will be provided. Sandwiches and other small bites will be served after the workshop sessions.

Should I take part? What if I need extra support?

The workshop is free and open to any adult members of the community from the Easterhouse area. Participation is voluntary and we particularly encourage to take part anyone who may be struggling to heat their homes and/or to get access transport.

There are no other prerequisites, and we will try our best to facilitate participation to those that may need a little extra support. For instance, we can pay for transport costs to and from the venue.

If you need transport or any other type of support take part, please get in touch and we will try to arrange it.

Where can I register my interest to participate?

Please send us an email to: christian.calvillo@strath.ac.uk

Please specify in your email which session would you be attending (1 to 3pm or 4 to 6pm) and if you need transport or any other type of support. Also, if you have any special dietary requirements.
